ABOUT

Trevor Douglas has been performing his soul-infused acoustic sound across Texas starting at a young age. With performances that span appearances as a finalist on American Idol, opening slots for Hunter Hayes and the Jonas Brothers, as well as stints at huge events like The Dallas International Film Festival and Texas State Fair for the last three years, he's no stranger to the spotlight. His talent has garnered him exposure in a TED Talk and his home state even awarded him The Most Entertaining Singer in The Texas Top Ten competition, solidifying him as a musician to watch in the region. As a songwriter, he gravitates towards a subtle pop style in the vein of influences like Ed Sheeran, Lauv and Charlie Puth— full of sensitive lyrics, sweeping melodies, and hooky choruses.

A male singer with dark, curly hair and glasses is performing on stage. He is wearing a dark, long-sleeved shirt and is singing into a microphone held in his right hand. His eyes are closed, and his mouth is open in a passionate expression. The background consists of vertical red and orange curtains. To the left, there are two more microphones on stands. To the right, the head of a guitar is visible.

HIGHLIGHTS

- American Idol
- Ted Talk

PRESS

"With so many artists making names for themselves in the public sphere, it can be easy to let people slip off your radar. Adding new performers to your world is as simple as a few touches of the screen. You owe it to yourself to throw a few of those towards Trevor Douglas. He has obvious talent, and the chops to go far."

— Pop Dust

"Douglas' captivating style of pop is in the mold of huge singer-songwriter artists like Ed Sheeran and Shawn Mendes. His lyrics and vocals are introspective and his music is catchy and engaging."

— The Record Stashe

"Throughout our first listen through Four In The Morning, we were hit with two popstar comparisons. The first two names that came to mind were Ed Sheeran and Justin Timberlake."
