

A CULTURE OF SILENCE

95% of firefighters and 78% of police reported experiencing critical stress on the job

90% of police and 87% of firefighters said that stigma in the workplace keeps them from getting help for their symptoms

85% of police and 81% of firefighters fear being seen as weak or unfit for duty if they talk about their symptoms

78% of firefighters and 76% of police believed that seeking help would endanger their career progression or reputation

77% of firefighters and 76% of police believed themselves to suffer from unresolved work-related issues

65% of firefighters and 61% of police reported being haunted by memories of bad calls

25% of police and 19% of firefighters had thoughts of suicide

Source: NBC4 I-team surveys of Fraternal Order of Police and International Association of Fire Fighters members, 2017

"The FLOW program gives me a sense of ease and shows there are others who care for our mental well-being. Even if it's just to talk and release things on my mind dealing with the job or everyday life, it feels helpful just to be able to talk to someone who can relate to the stresses of the job and teach you healthy ways of coping."

First Responder/FLOW Participant

POST TRAUMA RESOURCES, LLC
"Solutions for life's toughest problems"
www.posttrauma.com

Post Trauma Resources' FLOW wellness program was created by a former first responder to address the many unique stressors affecting first responders and their families.

Whether you have many years on the job or are just starting out, helping does not have to hurt. FLOW can help.

Post Trauma Resources, LLC

FLOW

A Wellness Program for
First Responders and their Families

Follow us on Facebook or Instagram @PTRFLOW
Email for support to FLOW@posttrauma.com

WHAT IS FLOW?

First responder wellness efforts cannot focus only on the impact of critical incidents. It is important to build resilience for all of life's hardships so that you have the resources needed to keep going when things get tough. Our FLOW program was developed with the unique needs of first responders in mind so that you and your family can be healthy and successful while doing this important work. Our goals include:

- Enhancing INDIVIDUAL wellness through education, early identification, and effective intervention.
- Empowering FAMILIES in a supportive role through education and involvement.
- Encouraging wellness through the creation and facilitation of a positive PEER support system.

HOW IS FLOW DIFFERENT FROM OTHER PROGRAMS?

FLOW takes a proactive approach to first responder wellness. While we are available to provide a quick and effective response after a critical incident, FLOW is designed primarily to address the other aspects of life that make first responder work challenging—the effects of cumulative trauma exposure, a history of past trauma, family and relationship issues, behavioral health issues, and much more.

FLOW targets the individual needs of each participant, providing tools and effective confidential interventions that promote resilience and healing. Our goal is to see a shift in first responder culture so that seeking support is viewed as a strength rather than a weakness.

AMY LUTZ
PROGRAM DIRECTOR

It is difficult to understand the complexities of the first responder lifestyle without having lived it, and Amy Lutz has done so as both a law enforcement leader and a law enforcement spouse. In addition to holding a Master of Social Work (MSW) degree and clinical licensure, Amy brings the wisdom of a 13-year law enforcement career with a wealth of specialized service experience to include:

- Team Leader, Special Response Team (SRT/SWAT)
- Team Leader, Negotiators
- Sergeant, Internal Affairs and Uniformed Services
- Investigator, Larcenies and Special Victims Unit
- Undercover, Narcotics
- Medal of Valor recipient, 2011.

She knows the importance of self-care and growing beyond the culture of silence to remain healthy and productive as a first responder.

CONGRATULATIONS!

In May 2022, Amy Lutz was selected as one of The State's 20 under 40 Leaders in recognition of her work with the FLOW program!