AF SPECWAR

Air Force Special Warfare (AFSPEWAR) comprises ground combat forces that specialize in airpower application in hostile, denied and politically sensitive environments. Our Special Warfare Operators integrate air, space, and cyber power with special operations and conventional forces to provide global access, precision strike and personnel recovery capabilities for the Joint Force.

PRECISION STRIKE

Highly-trained in kinetic and non-kinetic precision strike—from coordinating with aircraft to direct accurate munitions to humanitarian aid drops from the ground. Special Tactics Airmen are the Air Force's premier ground force that maximize the impacts of air power by controlling and directing precise strikes to destroy enemy terrain, positions and resources.

GLOBAL ACCESS

Special Tactics Global Access Teams are tasked with assessing and opening anything from a major international airport to clandestine dirt strips in either permissive or hostile locations, providing strategic access for follow-on forces.

Guardian Angel (GA) Teams ensure U.S. and allies nations can access man-made and natural contested, degraded and operationally-challenged environments, enabling options for assault, maneuver and power projection.

PERSONNEL RECOVERY

Special Tactics & Guardian Angels Teams have the ability to conduct personnel recovery missions, from rapid mission planning to technical rescue, treatment and exfiltration. With in-depth medical and rescue expertise, along with their deployment capabilities, these Airmen are able to perform rescue missions in the world's most remote areas.

Life After Special Operations

There are a lot of skills that those serving in the special forces can bring to post-military career. Specific careers can also be a perfect fit and would be worth pursuing.

Whatever you decide to do, you can bring the skills you learned during your time in the special forces to the civilian workplace. A lot of what you have experience with can help you in civilian careers, no matter what you want to do.
